Bridging Universiti Malaysia Pahang to the world comm

Malay Language enhancement carnival benefitted UMP

Universiti Malaysia Pahang (UMP)'s Centre for Modern Languages & Human Sciences (CMLHS) organized a Carnival and Community Service involving 35 of its foreign undergraduates who were from Yemen, Egypt, and Saudi Arabia, along with students from Sekolah Menengah Kebangsaan Seri Bera.

The event, which was held on April 23, 2019, saw the participants taking part in cross-cultural programmes and activities to promote the understanding of the international cultures.

According to Programme Director, Juwairiah Osman, who is from the Foreign Language Department of CMLHS, the event was organized by the Gambang Campus who took the UHF1161: Malay for Beginners and UHF2161: Malay for Intermediate courses.

She added that among the activities that were carried out were teaching the school students techniques on (SPM)'s bahasa Melayu paper, presenting motivational and career talks and showcasing the 'Jom Masuk U

"There are other exhibitions that showcased how the Malay language has innovatively progressed international cultures of Yemen, Egypt, Syria, Sudan, Somalia and China," she added.

She also said that the programme had made good impacts in generating the interest in the language and that it managed UMP to establish good ties with the community especially schools.

Juwairiah said the carnival's committee consisted of language teachers from the Department of Foreign Languages and students taking the soft skill subject and those from UMP Orator Club.

UMP student Ahmed Adel Shahnan, who is from Yemen, said he was glad to be able to participate in the programme and to experience the education system in Malaysia.

Ahmed Adel Shanan, an undergraduate at Faculty of Computer Systems & Software Engineering (FCSSE), said he was able to communicate with the school students.

Another participant Ammar Abdullah Manea Alkhawlani, also from Yemen, said he could now converse in Malay.

"Normally, I would communicate with my Malay, Chinese and Indian friends in campus. I am fortunate to be able to communicate with students from the school. The experience was surely wonderful," he added.

In UMP, students can learn the Malay language, share new experience and tell stories about the special life at the university and the fun of communicating in Malay.

In a move to make foreign students understand the language better, UMP carried out various programmes including a Malay language programme where participants would take part in dramas, poem reading and public speaking.

Some of them had participated in the Prime Minister Cup International Malay Speaking Competition that was held in Kuala Lumpur.

FIM Learning Factory: New member of the I

FIM Learning Factory, an initiative by the Faculty of Industrial Management (FIM) of Universiti Malaysia Perlis, has achieved a significant milestone – being accepted as the new member, and the first from Asia, of the International Association of Learning Factories (IALF).

The prestigious recognition was held during the IALF's annual general meeting (AGM) at the Braunschweig University of Applied Sciences (HTW) on March 26, 2019.

Representing UMP Learning Factory at the AGM were Dean of FIM, Associate Professor Dr. Mohd Ridzuan Yusoff (Chairman and Chief Operating Officer), and Head of Technical and lecturer, Mohd Ghazali Maarof.

IALF was originally a European Learning Factory (ELF), established in 2011 and was later revamped and expanded to include a wider circle of research institutions in Germany, Austria, Croatia, Greece and South Africa.

IALF was founded with the aim to collaborate on achieving teaching excellence in the fields of manufacturing and engineering.

In the last few years, there has been a growing interest in Learning Factory worldwide, particularly with the increasing demand for research companies and consulting services.

The Learning Factory is a learning environment concept where a real industrial site is created to allow both students and lecturers to gain real-world exposure of the production process. It emphasized on the experimental and problem-based learning and active involvement of the participants.

Meanwhile, the establishment of Learning Factory at UMP in 2016 has become part and parcel of the FIM curriculum.

The objectives were to provide a complete industrial site within a campus environment with real manufacturing processes to assimilate the elements of Technical and Vocational Education and Training (TVET).

Through such establishment, FIM hopes to prepare undergraduates with the experience of working in a real industrial environment to with confidence and ease. By participating in the activities of a Learning Factory, students can also enhance their skills and knowledge.

Universiti Malaysia Pahang (UMP) community especially students at Faculty of Industrial Management (FIM) received a collection of books and journals on management, finance, governance practices, integrity and ethics that belonged to the late Allahyarham Professor Dato' Dr. Ishak Ismail who passed away on April 4, 2019.

More than 100 books belonging to him that have been donated to UMP Library in Gambang Campus and the purpose of learning.

The books were given away by his widow, Professor Dato' Dr. Hasnah Haron, who is also Institute of Librarian, Dzull Zabarrod Ahmad on April 25, 2019.

Also present were Chief Operating Officer and Registrar of UMP, Associate Professor Dr. Mohd Ridzuan D. Safie.

Allahyarham Professor Dato' Dr. Ishak had made huge contribution to UMP with the establishment of the Faculty of Industrial Management in 2016, which was a result of strategic partnership fostered with Pahang Foundation.

According to Professor Dato' Dr. Hasnah, the books and journals were mainly on his late husband's research works as 'Keberkesanan Sistem Parol Jabatan Penjara' (Effectiveness of Parole System at the Prison Department Government Agency), a study on small businesses in Japan, a study on the anti-bribery management system in corporate foundations and factors that impacted study loan repayments by borrowers of Pahang Foundation.

"Others included works on basic operations management, consumer behavior, basic and practices in management, works of masters' and doctorate degree students.

"There were also an article on 'Internal Audit Capability Model' published in New Zealand that was 'Internal Audit Capability Maturity Model' printed by the Institute Internal Auditors, USA," she said.

As for Associate Professor Dr. Mohd Ridzuan, he said this was a very significant contribution especially for the students.

Dzull Zabarrod also expressed his appreciation on the contribution made and that the books and publication are good reference sources on a variety of issues.

“We highly appreciate the services of the late academician who had contributed a lot of books to the library
